

This Week at Galt UMC

December 26, 2018

After Christmas Blues?

Do you ever feel a letdown after Christmas?
Do the holidays bring back difficult memories?
Are you sometimes depressed when others are celebrating?
If so, you will not want to miss worship this Sunday because there will be no after Christmas letdown at the Galt United Methodist Church this Sunday. We are excited to welcome Kevin Brown to our worship. Kevin is a pastor at Horizon Church and is a good friend of Pastors Joe and Norm. He will be bringing a most relevant message titled, "The Mental Health Battle within the Church." Both Joe and I will be here as well because we know the importance of this topic. Every family is touched in some ways with mental health concerns.

Kevin will be saying, "It's okay to not be okay, but it's not okay to stay that way." Come and hear more on Sunday.

See more about Kevin below.

See you on Sunday.

- - Pastor Norm

We welcome Pastor Kevin Brown to Galt UMC this Sunday, December 30. Kevin has been in full-time church ministry for 26 years and is a former First United Methodist Youth Director in Lodi under Pastor Norm. Presently, Kevin serves as Executive Pastor at Horizon Community Church here in Galt and is a Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist. Kevin has been married to Katrina for almost 23 years and they have a daughter McKenna who is 17 and son Trevor who is 14.

Is open tomorrow morning from 8 - 9:00am.
Extra help always welcome.

Don't forget December 30 is a Fifth Sunday Potluck for fellowship hour. Let's celebrate Christmas together with a favorite you prepare. Marjorie Houck and Betty Yoder are in charge and welcome any volunteers to help.

Don't put your Christmas sweaters away yet. Keep out one that you think might qualify for the definition of UGLY. Wear it Sunday for our UGLY CHRISTMAS SWEATER SUNDAY. Let's have some fun on this final Sunday of 2018.

Thanks to everyone who helped make Christmas Eve so special on a rainy night. You were a great team. - - Norm
